CHÂTEAU DE LA BORIE IN THE LIMOUSIN

Chateau de la Borie in Solignac is located in the Limousin hills 5 kilometers south of Limoges. Solignac is known to the pilgrims on the Route Saint Jacques de Compostella for its historical XIIIth century abbey and church. Their route passes the picturesque medieval bridge over the Briance and continues in the direction of La Borie and beyond. The famous Richard the Lionheart route also passes through Solignac on its way to many beautiful historical castles in the Limousin.

Chateau de la Borie and its annexes are surrounded by 14 hectares of ornamental and vegetable gardens, park, lake and forest, that change their splendor with each season. Although La Borie is surrounded by nature the proximity of Limoges with its Bénédictins railroad station and its International Airport Bellegarde gives easy access.

HISTORY

La Borie (Occitan for ox-farm) is an example of a historical large domain for farming and living typical for the Limousin. The castle was built between 1580 and 1634 during the reign of Louis XIII in a late-renaissance style. The first owner was the noble Martial de Maledent, lord of La Borie, treasurer of the king for the Généralité of Limoges. The Maledent family resided in Limoges. The agricultural domain

La Borie provided the family with wood, grain, poultry and meat and was a source of respect and prestige. As was customary during that era, the domain was used for hunting parties and festivities for an elegant world.

CONTEMPORARY ART

At the end of the XXth century La Borie became a cultural center and its buildings were restored for this purpose. In 2017 the La Borie Gallery was opened: a gallery for contemporary art of an international level that organizes exhibits and a program of lectures, art films and artists talks. In addition, courses on contemporary art are held both for art lovers and collectors.

The Limousin is not only known for its meat of the authentic rust-brown cows and its world-famous porcelain, but also for its high density of contemporary art centers spread out in its beautiful surroundings. The first FRAC (Fondation Regional d'Art Contemporain) opened in the early 1990's in Meymac. The musea and other sites for contemporary art make the region a favorite place for an exploration: the FRAC Limousin Limoges and the FRAC Meymac, the Rochechouart museum and the CIAP Vassivière, located on an enchanting island are just a few examples.
